Prospect Park has just confirmed that pending a final agreement with AFTRA, All My Children cast members Cameron Mathison (Ryan Lavery) and Lindsay Hartley (Dr. Cara Castillo Martin) have agreed to deals to join the company's new production of All My Children.

This marks the first confirmation of cast members since Prospect Park began planning for the soap production to live on the new online network beyond its final televised date on ABC this week.

One castmember not heading to Prospect Park's online production is Debbi Morgan (Angie). She will head to Genoa City to star on the Young and the Restless this fall.

An announcement regarding the start date of the new production of All My Children is expected in the coming weeks. Stay tuned!
