

Bold and the Beautiful Sneak Peeks Week 3-14-11

Written by Linda Marshall-Smith
Friday, 11 March 2011 22:18

It's March Madness, Bold and the Beautiful fans, and you know what that means. B&B will be pre-empted both Thursday, March 17 (Happy St. Patrick's Day) and Friday, March 18, 2011. But fear not, the rest of the week is jammed with ups and downs in love, romance and the fashion world. First up...

Thorne is back. So are Madison and Jarrett. Why are these three showing up in town? Is their presence connected in any way?

Meanwhile, it's a been there, done that moment as Brooke and Stephanie find themselves, once again, at an impasse. Why are the two divas at odds this time? One thing is certain. This is a major blow out. In fact, it may even reach catfight proportions. At the very least, Stephanie will definitely take a hand to Brooke, who literally reels after being slapped by Stephanie. And just when the two were appearing to make progress as friends not enemies.

Shortly thereafter, Stephanie teams with Taylor and they both lash out at Brooke to Ridge. It appears that Ridge is open to their accusations, which is why it's not surprising then that Taylor soon hopes that this is the end of Brooke and Ridge. But is Taylor counting her chickens before they're hatched?

Speaking of Taylor, Thomas blames her for his current woes. Does he confront her? If so, how will she deal with him? Or does she simply brush his concerns aside, as she is now more concerned about his dad? All we can say is this. Don't miss a minute of the Bold and the Beautiful on Monday through Wednesday this week.