It's Christmas time in Salem. Bo and Hope kick off the holiday season by decorating the Horton Christmas Tree, and wind up making a shocking discovery. What do they uncover? Meanwhile, Sami confronts Will in the aftermath of his explosion at Maggie's. What does Will have to say for himself? Later, Nicole and Marlena face off. Why are these two battling it out this time? Will their chilling war of words cause a life-long rift between them?

At the same time, it's all oohs and ahs as Abe officiates at the tree lighting ceremony. Then, Maggie makes a maternal gesture. Is it toward Sami? If so, how will Sami respond? Meanwhile, Doug and Julie make a surprise visit, and a budding couple fights their attraction. Will the chemistry be too much for them to handle? As everyone engages in traditional Salem holiday cheer, only EJ is absent. He's got bigger fish to fry, like plannin a romantic, if guilt-ridden evening. .

Shortly thereafter, Abigail and Chad feel the possibility of romantic sparks - but not with each other. For whom do their hearts yearn? In the meantime, Hope reaches out to two improbable allies for help with her grandmother's mystery. Who does Hope turn to and will they agree to assist her? Finally, the action turns to Kate who begins to feel empathy toward an unlikely foe. We can't help but wonder again – is the foe in question Sami?
