

EMMY 2011 ~ Pre, Pre-Nominations Announced

Nelson Branco of TV Guide Canada has landed a scoop. He's got the pre, pre-Daytime Emmys nominations list. From what we can tell, just about everyone on every show is throwing their hat in the ring for an Emmy nod this year. Are your favorites included?

As you can imagine, most of the usual suspects are on the list. We are happy to see Susan Lucci (Erica, All My Children) going for it again, along with AMC's Michael E. Knight (Tad). We are also happy to see Aaron D. Spears (Justin. The Bold and the Beautiful) throwing his hat in the ring, along with newcomer Kristolyn Lloyd (Dayzee, B&B). As the World Turns aired for 8.5 months last year and as such is eligible for some well-deserved awards. We'd love to see someone from Days of our Lives get an acting award this year, and think a few have a shot. And wouldn't it be way cool if Tristan Rogers was nominated for his work in The Young and the Restless? We'd also love to see Florencia Lozano get a nod for her work on One Life to Live, not to forget Dominic Zamprogna for General Hospital.

What happens next is that the various and sundry members of the Television Academy get to vote on these pre, pre nominees. Then, the stars who receive the top two amounts of votes, will get on the short list for the Pre Emmy nominations to be announced February 25th.
