Carly thinks Morgan is the guilty one

After much thought, I don't believe Morgan killed Silas. To put it simply, Morgan is too much of a coward to kill anyone. Morgan is just an immature young man with no morals and no courage. Granted, Silas was stabbed in the back. But I don't believe Morgan is his killer.

Ava could be guilty. But isn't that a bit too easy? Ava had the most to lose. But would Ava kill her daughter's father? I'm not sure yet. Again, it just seems much too simple.

So Elizabeth figured out that Nikolas had Hayden shot. Good for Elizabeth for being realistic and seeing Nikolas for who he is. Not that I love this darker side of Nikolas. But, at least Elizabeth knows what Nikolas is capable of.

It broke Laura's heart to learn what Nikolas was capable of. I feel for Laura. She didn't do the greatest job raising her kids. But Laura did the best she was capable of doing at the time. I'd like to believe that Laura is a completely different person now. She's not the carefree, selfish person who went on the run with Luke all those years ago.

I really hope Jason gets his full memory back. I truly believe that this time around Jason will choose a life with Elizabeth. Yes, Jason will finally pick Elizabeth. I think Jason will come to understand the reason Elizabeth failed to tell him the truth. And once everything is out in the open, they can finally find some happiness.

In actor news, Rick Springfield (Noah) is simply wonderful in the new film, 'Ricki and the Flash.' Springfield plays a musician opposite Meryl Streep. The film is in theaters now. You can watch the trailer here.
