We knew it was only a matter of time, and this week, his time is up. Ronan says goodbye to Genoa City. Will there be those who are sorry to see him go, or will everyone feel that his departure was long over due?

As Ronan bids adieu to Genoa City, Anita arrives in town. Turns out that Anita is the one and only mother of Chelsea, and she's got an agenda. A few of them, we hear. In fact, Billy and Victoria couldn't be more wary of Anita, but why are they so concerned about Chelsea's scheming mother?

(Oh, and just in case you recognize her from someplace, the actress playing Anita is none other than the actress who invented "Daisy Dukes" cut-off denim short-shorts. Yup. None other than Daisy Dukes herself, from "The Dukes of Hazzard," Catherine Bach.)

At the same time, Jack, knowing he faces a difficult road ahead, struggles to come to terms with his condition. Will what ails him rob him of more than just good health?

Oh, and watch for a familiar face to hit town as the Justice of the Peace. Just who is getting married? Keep your remote glued to The Young and the Restless this week and find out.
