

Soap Fan and Aspiring Actor Gives Kudos

Written by Esther Amprofi
Sunday, 10 December 2006 04:27

Soaps help us all grow somehow

{mosimage}Dear Soapdom,

My name is Esther and I'm a huge soap opera fan. I've been a soap opera fan for God knows how long. I love soaps because most of the storylines are real-life issues and I believe it helps us all grow some how. Besides, I am an aspiring actress and it helps me perfect my acting skills. Just watching nice, beautiful, talented people exhibiting different emotions and talent is just phenomenal and I learn a lot from them.

I just thought I'd share this with someone.

Thanks,
Esther Amprofi
via email

Dear Esther,

Thank you so much for sharing your thoughts about soap operas with us at Soapdom.com. Your comment that soap operas "help us all grow some how," couldn't be more on the money, which is why institutions like the Center for Disease Control (CDC), GLAAD, and the NAACP Image Awards, among others, all honor soaps for the work they do to impart socially responsible information, and depict minority characters in a positive light.

Continue to enjoy your soaps, and break a leg in regard to your own acting career.

The Editors